"The Forsun project is the result of fruitful cooperation with the French Development Agency (AFD) and the European Union, which are contributing alongside the Beninese government for a total investment of nearly XOF 16 billion ($25.8 million)," the statement said. Benin is moving forward with a major renewable energy initiative through a partnership between Axian Energy, a pan-African developer, and Sika Capital Bénin. The two companies have announced the launch of a project to construct four solar power plants with a combined capacity of 50 megawatts. Illoulofin Solar Power Station, is a 50 megawatts (67,000 hp) solar power plant in Benin, whose first 25 MW was commissioned on 19 July 2022, and the next 25 MW is under construction and is expected to come online in 2025. [1] The solar farm is under development by the Government of Benin, with. Toyota Tsusho Corporation ("Toyota Tsusho") announced today the conclusion of a contract with the Beninese Electricity Production Company, under the Ministry of Energy and Water, for the construction of a 25 MW solar power plant ("the Project") in the Pobè region of the Republic of Benin ("Benin"). Benin's government has reaffirmed its intention to make renewable energy the main source of the country's power supply by 2030. Access to electricity in Benin remains both low and highly uneven: Around 42% of urban households are connected, with less than 13% in rural areas. With financial and. Benin is taking significant strides in renewable energy, with plans to install 150 MW of solar power capacity by 2026. This ambitious goal is part of the government's broader agenda to diversify the country's energy mix and reduce its reliance on imported fossil fuels. The proposed solar expansion. Toyota Tsusho Corporation, in partnership with Benin's Société béninoise de production d'électricité (SBPE) and EPC contractor RMT-Eiffage, is developing the second 25 MW phase of the Illoulofin Solar Power Station in Pobè, Benin. First contracted in August 2023, this expansion builds on an initial.
